Biography/History

In 1918, as part of the war effort, a man from each Pennsylvania township was selected by the County Director of Agriculture to make reports on crop conditions. These men were also directed to appoint a woman to organize a Society of Farm Women chapter in their area. Ora Bell Bryant accepted an appointment by a representative of the Washington County Department of Agriculture to organize a Society of Farm Women chapter in Peters Township. On September 20, 1918, Bryant invited local women to a meeting in her home in Venetia, Peters Township, and during this meeting they formed the Peters Township Society of Farm Women. The newly formed organization started with 28 members. Over the first 20 years, as many as 70 women belonged to the chapter at one point or another. At the twenty-year anniversary, the Peters Township Society of Farm Women had 17 active and five honorary members.

In a September 1938 Morning Observer newspaper article, Mrs. David Rees, the Society's first president, tells the story of the founding of the Society and the history of the first twenty years of the Peters Township Society of Farm Women. Mrs. Rees reported, "To be statistical, we held more than two hundred meetings, prepared and read maybe 1000 papers, heard possible thirty speakers, made garments for hospitals, carpet rags for the blind, have gone on trips ... held flower shows, ... and made ourselves as useful as we knew how." Rees further stated, "Probably the finest achievement was the organization of a Junior organization."

While the Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania continues today, the Peters Township chapter of this organization is no longer in operation.
